

Lesson Supplement

North American Geography

This edition of “Practice Geography” provides study questions for year 9–12 students in

- Advanced Placement Human Geography in the USA (APHG)
- Geography course, Standard and Higher Level, International Baccalaureate Diploma (IB)

- Wind and Jewel Caves, Black Hills, South Dakota & Glacier Bay, Alaska
APHG Topic V.: Agricultural and Rural Land Use
IB Content 2.12, 3.11.2, Spatial Patterns-Physical Landscape, and 3.2: Resource Management, Spatial Patterns, and Coasts and Their Management
- Introduced (Non-native) Species
APHG Topics II., III., and VII.: Population, Cultural Patterns and Processes, and Cities and Urban Land Use
IB 2.11, 2.12 and 3.11.2: Resource Management, Issues in Development, and Spatial Patterns
- Colorado River Basin & Phoenix Water Supply and Demand
APHG Topics II. and VII.: Population and Cities and Urban Land Use
IB Content 2.7, 2.12, and 3.11.2: Specific Resource Consumption, Resource Management, and Spatial Patterns
- Indigenous Peoples of the Glacier Bay Region, Alaska
APHG Topics II. and III.: Population and Cultural Patterns and Processes
IB Content 2.4, 3.11.2, and 3.2: Population Movement, Spatial Patterns, and Coasts and Their Management
- Tourism in the United States
APHG Topics II., III., VI., and VII.: Population, Cultural Patterns and Processes, Industrialization and Economic Development, and Cities and Urban Land Use
IB Content 3.10.4 and 3.11.2: Tourism and Spatial Patterns

This Lesson Supplement is prepared and written by Ginger Schmid, Adjunct Instructor, Minnesota State University,
Mankato, MN 56001 / USA
Contact: ginger.schmid@mnsu.edu

The lessons are designed to encourage critical thinking while examining readings on different aspects of North American Geography. These readings directly address the established purpose of the AP Human Geography program by providing examples of “patterns and processes that have shaped human understanding, use, and alteration of Earth’s surface” (apcentral.collegeboard.com). The topics covered fall into a variety of APHG and IB Geography categories. The specific topics covered will be identified for each section of questions.